NEW QUESTION: 3 Switch-1 in the exhibit receives a packet from User A with a destination MAC address of 00:26:88:02:74:47. Which statement is correct in this scenario?
A. Switch-1 floods the packet out ge-0/0/7 and ge-0/0/8.
B. Switch-1 floods the packet out ge-0/0/6, ge-0/0/7, ge-0/0/8, and ge-0/0/9.
C. Switch-1 sends the packet out ge-0/0/7 only.
D. Switch-1 floods the packet out ge-0/0/7, ge-0/0/8, and ge-0/0/9.
Answer: D Explanation: To forward a frame destined to that specific mac-address, it will know out of which port to send the frame. Flooding however occurs when the switch does not know of the destination mac-address- say the switch has not learnt that mac address yet; or maybe that specific entry expired so it got flushed away from the mac-address table. To ensure the frame reaches its intended destination, the switch will replicate that frame out of all ports, less the port where the frame was received - that's flooding.
