NEW QUESTION: 2DHCPv6 is used in which IPv6 address autoconfiguration method?
A. cryptographically generated addresses
B. stateful autoconfiguration
C. EUI-64 address generation
D. stateless autoconfiguration
Answer: B
Explanation: Stateful autoconfiguration is the IPv6 equivalent of DHCP. A new protocol, called DHCPv6 (and based closely on DHCP), is used to pass out addressing and service information in the same way that DHCP is used in IPv4. This is called "stateful" because the DHCP server and the client must both maintain state information to keep addresses from conflicting, to handle leases, and to renew addresses over time. Our network does not use DHCPv6. The DHCPv6 protocol is not yet standardized, although there are several drafts available, including "Dynamic Host Configuration Protocol for IPv6 (DHCPv6)" (by J. Bound and C. Perkins) "Extensions for DHCPv6" (by C. Perkins) which are expected to move to proposed standard status shortly.:
