NEW QUESTION: 1Your customer wants to assign the Net 45 payment term to all sets except for the corporate business unit specific set, which is assigned the Net 15 payment term. At transaction entry, the list of values for payment terms consists of only one set of data: the set that is assigned to the transaction's business unit. Which reference data sharing method would you set up to meet the customer requirement? (Choose the best answer.)
A. assignment to one set only; no common values allowed
B. assignment to one set only with common values
C. assignment to multiple sets; no common values allowed
D. assignment to multiple sets; common values allowed
Answer: C
Explanation: Explanation Reference <https://docs.oracle.com/en/cloud/saas/applications-common/19b/face/define-enterprise-structures.html#FACIA4> Reference Data Sharing Methods Variations exist in the methods used to share data in reference data sets across different types of objects. The following list identifies the methods:
Assignment to one set only, no common values allowed. This method is the simplest form of sharing reference data that allows assigning a reference data object instance to one and only one set. For example, Asset Prorate Conventions are defined and assigned to only one reference data set. This set can be shared across multiple asset books, but all the values are contained only in this one set.
Assignment to one set only, with common values. This method is the most commonly used method of sharing reference data that allows defining reference data object instance across all sets. For example, Receivables Transaction Types are assigned to a common set that is available to all the business units. You need not explicitly assign the transaction types to each business unit. In addition, you can assign a business unit-specific set of transaction types. At transaction entry, the list of values for transaction types includes the following:
Transaction types from the set assigned to the business unit.
Transaction types assigned to the common set that is shared across all business units.
Assignment to multiple sets, no common values allowed. The method of sharing reference data that allows a reference data object instance to be assigned to multiple sets. For instance, Payables Payment Terms use this method. It means that each payment term can be assigned to one or more than one set. For example, you assign the payment term Net 30 to several sets but assign Net 15 to a set specific only to your business unit. At transaction entry, the list of values for payment terms consists of only the set that is assigned to the transaction's business unit.
Note: Oracle Fusion Applications contains a reference data set called Enterprise. Define any reference data that affects your entire enterprise in this set. Also update the data set going forward as you create new reference data items.

NEW QUESTION: 2 Which of the following is used by an IS-IS router to detect other IS-IS neighbor routers and to form adjacencies?
A. PSNP. B. ISHC. C. IIHD. D. CSNPE. E. ESH
Answer: C
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: ISIS actually features three different hello types. An ES Hello (ESH) is sent by all End Systems, and all IS devices listen for this Hello. An IS Hello (ISH) announces the presence of an IS - An IS Hello is sent by all IS devices, and End Systems listen for these hellos. Finally, an IS-to-IS Hello (IIH) is used by an IS to discover other ISes and to form adjacencies with them. A router will send an IIH to another router on the link to form or maintain an adjacency, but it will still send an ISH as well in case there are end systems located on that segment.

NEW QUESTION: 3 Note: This question is part of a series of questions that present the same scenario. Each question on the series contains a unique solution that might meet the stated goals. Some question sets might have more than one correct solution, while others might not have a correct solution. After you answer a question in this section, you will NOT be able to return to it. As a result, these questions will not appear in the review screen. You manage an Azure SQL Database. The database has weekly backups that are stored in an Azure Recovery Services vault. You create an Azure Recovery Services vault and download the backup agent installation file. You need to complete the installation of the backup agent. What should you do first?
A. Select the data to back up. B. Set the storage replication option. C. Download the vault credentials file. D. Configure network throttling.
Answer: C
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: Steps include: create a vault, prepare your infrastructure to back up files and folders by downloading and installing the Microsoft Azure Recovery Services agent, downloading vault credentials, and then using those credentials to register the agent with the vault.
