NEW QUESTION: 2 Your Company has one main office and 100 branch offices. The network consists of one Active Directory domain. All domain controllers run Windows Server 2008 R2. The wide area network (WAN) links from the branch offices to the main office are unreliable. A local administrator manages each branch office. Your company plans to add a new branch office. You create a new organizational unit (OU) that contains all the computer accounts for the new branch office. You configure a server in the main office to test all new software updates. You install Microsoft Windows Server Update Services (WSUS) 3.0. You need to implement an update management solution for the new branch office to meet the following requirements: Only approved updates must be installed in the branch office. Client computers must be able to download updates if a WAN link fails. Each branch office administrator must be able to approve updates before installation. What should you do? A. In each branch office, install a WSUS 3.0 server as a replica server and configure it to download updates from the main office. Configure all computers to receive updates from their local WSUS server. B. In each branch office, install a WSUS 3.0 server as a child server and configure it to---download updates from Microsoft Update. Configure all computers to receive updates from their local WSUS server. C. In the main office, install a WSUS 3.0 server as a child server and configure it to download updates from Microsoft Update. Configure all computers to receive updates from the new WSUS server. D. In the main office, install and configure a WSUS 3.0 server as a stand-alone server and configure it to download updates from Microsoft Update. Configure all computers to receive updates from the new WSUS server. Answer: B Explanation: Explanation/Reference: To ensure that only the approved updates by the head office are allowed to be installed in the new branch office and to ensure that each branch office administrator must be able to approve the updates before their installation, you need to install a WSUS 3.0 server as a child server in each branch office. A child server can be configured as a replica or as an autonomous server. You should not install/configure replica server because you don't want a single administrator managing all WSUS activities, rather you want each branch office administrator to be able to approve the updates before their installation, which is possible in autonomous mode. To ensure that the client computers are able to download the updates even if the WAN link fails, you need to configure WSUS 3.0 server to download updates from Microsoft Update Reference: Deploying Microsoft Windows Server Update Services WSUS in a WAN http://www.windowsnetworking.com/articles\_tutorials/Deploying-Microsoft-Windows-Server-Update-Services.html
