NEW QUESTION: 2 You create an Azure Machine Learning workspace and set up a development environment. You plan to train a deep neural network (DNN) by using the Tensorflow framework and by using estimators to submit training scripts. You must optimize computation speed for training runs. You need to choose the appropriate estimator to use as well as the appropriate training compute target configuration. Which values should you use? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area. NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.
Answer: Explanation: Explanation Box 1: Tensorflow TensorFlow represents an estimator for training in TensorFlow experiments. Box 2: 12 vCPU, 112 GB memory, 2 GPU, Use GPUs for the deep neural network. Reference:

NEW QUESTION: 3 A constraint in a table is defined with the INITIALLY IMMEDIATE clause. You executed the ALTER TABLE command with the ENABLE VALIDATE option to enable the constraint that was disabled. What are the two effects of this command? (Choose two.)
A. It fails if any existing row violates the constraint.
B. It prevents insert, update, and delete operations on the table while the constraint is in the process of being enabled.
C. It enables the constraint to be enforced at the end of each transaction.
D. It does not validate the existing data in the table.
Answer: A, B Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: * Specify ENABLE if you want the constraint to be applied to the data in the table. * ENABLE VALIDATE specifies that all old and new data also complies with the constraint. An enabled validated constraint guarantees that all data is and will continue to be valid (not B). If any row in the table violates the integrity constraint, the constraint remains disabled and Oracle returns an error (A). If all rows comply with the constraint, Oracle enables the constraint. Subsequently, if new data violates the constraint, Oracle does not execute the statement and returns an error indicating the integrity constraint violation. Note: * Specify INITIALLY IMMEDIATE to indicate that Oracle should check this constraint at the end of each subsequent SQL statement. Incorrect: Not C: Specify INITIALLY DEFERRED to indicate that Oracle should check this constraint at the end of subsequent transactions.
