(Choose two.) A. Router1 and Switch2 should be connected via a crossover cable. B. Router1 needs more LAN interfaces to accommodate the VLANs that are shown in the exhibit. C. Router1 will not play a role in communications between host A and host D. D. Host E and host F use the same IP gateway address. E. The FastEthernet 0/0 interface on Router1 must be configured with subinterfaces. F. The FastEthernet 0/0 interface on Router1 and Switch2 trunk ports must be configured using the same encapsulation type. Answer: E, F Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Each VLAN is its own broadcast domain, hence its own subnet. We need the router to route packets between subnets. However, the router is only connected to Switch 2 with a single cable. Therefore, for the router to be a member of all VLANs (so as to route packets between them), it needs a trunk line to Switch2 as shown. But this means that the single interface must have multiple IP addresses, and this can only occur when that interface has sub-interfaces, each one with its own IP address (D). And if the line between the router and switch is a trunk line, it must be configured using the same trunk protocol, 802.1q or ISL.
