NEW QUESTION: 2What protocol is used on the Local Area Network (LAN) to obtain an IP address from it's known MAC address?A. Data link layerB. Reverse address resolution protocol (RARP)C. Network address translation (NAT)D. Address resolution protocol (ARP)Answer: B
Explanation:The reverse address resolution protocol (RARP) sends out a packet including a MAC address and a request to be informed of the IP address that should be assigned to that MAC.Diskless workstations do not have a full operating system but have just enough code to know how to boot up and broadcast for an IP address, and they may have a pointer to the server that holds the operating system. The diskless workstation knows its hardware address, so it broadcasts this information so that a listening server can assign it the correct IP address.As with ARP, Reverse Address Resolution Protocol (RARP) frames go to all systems on the subnet, but only the RARP server responds. Once the RARP server receives this request, it looks in its table to see which IP address matches the broadcast hardware address. The server then sends a message that contains its IP address back to the requesting computer. The system now has an IP address and can function on the network.The Bootstrap Protocol (BOOTP) was created after RARP to enhance the functionality that RARP provides for diskless workstations. The diskless workstation can receive its IP address, the name server address for future name resolutions, and the default gateway address from the BOOTP server. BOOTP usually provides more functionality to diskless workstations than does RARP.The evolution of this protocol has unfolded as follows: RARP evolved into BOOTP, which evolved into DHCP.The following are incorrect answers:NAT is a tool that is used for masking true IP addresses by employing internal addresses. ARP does the opposite of RARP, it finds the MAC address that maps with an existing IP address. Data Link layer The Data Link layer is not a protocol; it is represented at layer 2 of the OSI model. In the TCP/IP model, the Data Link and Physical layers are combined into the Network Access layer, which is sometimes called the Link layer or the Network Interface layer.
