(Choose three) A. Effective length is 7 characters. B. Converts passwords to uppercase. C. Hashes are sent in clear text over the network. D. Makes use of only 32 bit encryption. Answer: A, B, C Explanation: The LM hash is computed as follows. 1. The user's password as an OEM string is converted to uppercase. 2. This password is either null-padded or truncated to 14 bytes. 3. The "fixed-length" password is split into two 7-byte halves. 4. These values are used to create two DES keys, one from each 7-byte half. 5. Each of these keys is used to DES-encrypt the constant ASCII string "KGS!@#%$", resulting in two 8-byte ciphertext values. 6. These two ciphertext values are concatenated to form a 16-byte value, which is the LM hash. The hashes themselves are sent in clear text over the network instead of sending the password in clear text.
