What could be an issue?

Tracing the route to 10.10.12.1

A. RIPv2 not enabled on R3.
B. RIPv2 enabled on R3, but R3 LAN network that is not advertised into RIPv2 domain.
C. No issue that is identified; this behavior is normal since default route propagated into RIPv2 domain by Router R1.
D. RIPv2 routing updates are suppressed between R2 and R3 using passive interface feature.
Answer: A
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: First we should check the routing table of R2 with the "show ip route" command. In this table we cannot find the subnet "10.10.12.0/24" (R3

LAN network) so R2 will use the default route advertised from R1 (with the command "default-information originate" on R1) to reach unknown destination, in this case subnet 10.10.12.0/24 -> R2 will send traffic to 10.10.12.0/24 to R1. Next we need to find out why R3 did not advertise this subnet to R2. A quick check with the "show running- config" on R3 we will see that R3 was not configured with RIP (no "router rip" section). Therefore, we can conclude RIPv2 was not enabled on R3.
