NEW QUESTION: 1 A shortest-route algorithm is used in network models to:
A. Maximize throughput in networks with distinct entry source node) and exit sink node) points.
B. Identify the set of connecting branches having the shortest combined length.
C. Minimize total travel time from one site to each of the other sites in a transportation system.
D. Identify bottlenecks in a network and hence identify the longest path.
Answer: C
Explanation: Network models are used to solve managerial problems pertaining to project scheduling, information systems design, and transportation systems design. Networks consisting of nodes and arcs may be created to represent in graphic form problems related to transportation, assignment, and transshipment. The shortest-route, minimal spanning tree, and maximal flow problems are other applications of network models. A shortest-route algorithm minimizes total travel time from one site to each of the other sites in a transportation system.
