NEW QUESTION: 3When reason could cause an OSPF neighborship to be in the EXSTART/EXCHANGE state?A. Mismatched MTU sizeB. Mismatched OSPF network typeC. Mismatched areasD. Mismatched OSPF link costsAnswer: AExplanation:ExplanationWhen OSPF adjacency is formed, a router goes through several state changes before it becomes fully adjacent with its neighbor. The states are Down -> Attempt (optional) -> Init -> 2-Way -> Exstart -> Exchange -> Loading -> Full. Short descriptions about these states are listed below:Down: no information (hellos) has been received from this neighbor.Attempt: only valid for manually configured neighbors in an NBMA environment. In Attempt state, the router sends unicast hello packets every poll interval to the neighbor, from which hellos have not been received within the dead interval.Init: specifies that the router has received a hello packet from its neighbor, but the receiving router's ID was not included in the hello packet2-Way: indicates bi-directional communication has been established between two routers.Exstart: Once the DR and BDR are elected, the actual process of exchanging link state information can start between the routers and their DR and BDR.Exchange: OSPF routers exchange database descriptor (DBD) packets Loading: In this state, the actual exchange of link state information occurs Full: routers are fully adjacent with each other (Reference: http://www.cisco.com/en/US/tech/tk365/technologies\_tech\_note09186a0080093f0e.s.html) Neighbors Stuck in Exstart/Exchange State the problem occurs most frequently when attempting to run OSPF between a Cisco router and another vendor's router. The problem occurs when the maximum transmission unit (MTU) settings for neighboring router interfaces don't match. If the router with the higher MTU sends a packet larger than the MTU set on the neighboring router, the neighboring router ignores the packet.
