NEW QUESTION: 1Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains a DNS server named Server1. All client computers run Windows 10. On Server1, you have the following zone configuration. You have the following subnets defined on Server1. You need to prevent Server1 from resolving queries from DNS clients located on Subnet4. Server1 must resolve queries from all other DNS clients. Solution: From a Group Policy object (GPO) in the domain, you modify the Network List Manager Policies. Does this meet the goal? A. Yes B. No
Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 2A user has launched an EBS backed EC2 instance in the US-East-1a region. The user stopped the instance and started it back after 20 days. AWS throws up an 'InsufficientInstanceCapacity' error. What can be the possible reason for this? A. AWS zone mapping is changed for that user account B. There is some issue with the host capacity on which the instance is launched C. AWS does not have sufficient capacity in that availability zone D. The user account has reached the maximum EC2 instance limit
Answer: C
Explanation: When the user gets an 'Insufficient Instance Capacity' error while launching or starting an EC2 instance, it means that AWS does not currently have enough available capacity to service the user request. If the user is requesting a large number of instances, there might not be enough server capacity to host them. The user can either try again later, by specifying a smaller number of instances or changing the availability zone if launching a fresh instance.
