NEW QUESTION: 2 Users are reporting CPU related performance problems on the virtual machine Email-Prod throughout the day. The resource settings for the VM and the ESXi host the VM is running on are shown below:
VM: Email-Prod
vCPUs: 4
Memory: 96GB
ESXi host: CPU: 2 x 8 Core Processors
Memory: 128GB
NUMA architecture: E. 2 Nodes
Which two options would alleviate the observed performance problem for Email-Prod? (Choose two.)
A. Enable CPU affinity to bind all vCPUs to one NUMA node.
B. Enable the advanced parameter Numa.PageMigEnable.
C. Enable CPU affinity to separate 2 vCPUs for each NUMA node.
D. Enable the advanced parameter Numa.AutoMemAffinity.
Answer: C, D
Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:
B-) Memory
You can change the amount of RAM that a VM will use like this memsize = "128"
If you don't assign a value for memory VMware will use the default-setting which is 32MB
memsize = "32"
Whenever you assign RAM manually make sure the value is a multiple of 4 - otherwise the VM will not start:
memsize = "255" causes this error-message: Memory size 255 not a multiple of 4

-) This is expected behavior based on the current architecture of the scheduler. However, these points help to limit the impact of the issue:
- Lower the number of vCPUs. From the example above, you would lower the number of vCPUs from 8 to 6 or less. If the virtual machines are sized such that they are a whole multiple or divisor of the NUMA node size, this helps with the number of virtual machines that you can power on. If 6 vCPU virtual machines are used, you can run up to at least 8 of those virtual machines (with 100% CPU utilization) without incurring substantial ready times.
