NEW QUESTION: 1 Your computer runs Windows 8 and is connected to an Active Directory Domain Services (AD DS) domain. You create a folder and share the folder with everyone in your organization. You need to modify the NTFS permissions of the folder to meet the following criteria: -Users from the Marketing security group must be able to open files, but not modify them. -Users from the Supervisors security group must be able to create, modify, and delete files. -Users from both groups must not be able to delete the folder. Which permissions should you set? A. Assign the Marketing group the Read and Write permissions. Assign the Supervisors group the Full Control permission. B. Assign the Marketing group the Read and Write permissions. Assign the Supervisors group the Modify permission and the Delete Subfolders and Files special permission. C. Assign the Marketing group the Read permission. Assign the Supervisors group the Read and Write permissions and the Delete special permission. D. Assign the Marketing group the Read permission. Assign the Supervisors group the Read and Write permissions and the Delete Subfolders and Files special permission. Answer: D

NEW QUESTION: 2 You have deployed a Python application on Oracle Cloud Infrastructure Container Engine for Kubernetes. However, during testing you found a bug that you rectified and created a new Docker image. You need to make sure that if this new Image doesn't work then you can roll back to the previous version. Using kubectl, which deployment strategies should you choose? A. Blue/Green Deployment B. Canary Deployment C. Rolling Update D. A/B Testing Answer: A Explanation: Canary deployments are a pattern for rolling out releases to a subset of users or servers. The idea is to first deploy the change to a small subset of servers, test it, and then roll the change out to the rest of the servers. The canary deployment serves as an early warning indicator with less impact on downtime: if the canary deployment fails, the rest of the servers aren't impacted. Blue-green deployment is a technique that reduces downtime and risk by running two identical production environments called Blue and Green. At any time, only one of the environments is live, with the live environment serving all production traffic. For this example, Blue is currently live and Green is idle. A/B testing is a way to compare two versions of a single variable, typically by testing a subject's response to variant A against variant B, and determining which of the two variants is more effective. A rolling update offers a way to deploy the new version of your application gradually across your cluster.

NEW QUESTION: 3 A. Option B B. Option D C. Option C D. Option A Answer: B
