NEW QUESTION: 3 You are developing a SQL Server Analysis Services (SSAS) multidimensional database. The underlying data source does not have a time dimension table. You need to implement a time dimension. What should you do? A. Create a script by using a sample time dimension from a different multidimensional database. Then create a new dimension in an existing multidimensional database by executing the script. B. Use the SQL Server Data Tools Dimension Wizard and generate a time table in the data source. C. Use the SQL Server Data Tools Dimension Wizard and generate a time dimension by using the Use an existing table option. D. Create a CSV file with time data and use the DMX IMPORT statement to import data from the CSV file. Answer: B Explanation: In Microsoft SQL Server Analysis Services, you can use the Dimension Wizard in SQL Server Data Tools (SSDT) to create a time dimension when no time table is available in the source database. Generate a time table in the data source Select this option when you have permission to create objects in the underlying data source. The wizard will then generate a time table and store this table in the data source. The wizard then creates the time dimension from this time table. Generate a time table on the server Select this option when you do not have permission to create objects in the underlying data source. The wizard will then generate and store a table on the server instead of in the data source. (The dimension created from a time table on the server is called a server time dimension.) The wizard then creates the server time dimension from this table.
