NEW QUESTION: 1The Certidea.com network consists of a single Active Directory domain named Certidea.com.All servers on the Certidea.com network run Windows Server 2003 and all client computers run WindowsXP Professional.Terminal Services is installed on Certidea-SV34, a member server.After a couple of days the Certidea.com help desk is inundated with calls from users reporting unacceptablyslow response from the server.Upon investigation you find that Certidea-SV34 has 75 disconnected sessions and 25 sessions that havebeen idle for at least three hours.You have received instruction from the CIO to configure Certidea-SV34 to fulfill the following requirements:1.Disconnected sessions remain on the server for a maximum of 1 minute.2.Idle sessions remain on the server for a maximum of 30 minutes.3.Sessions idle for more than 30 minutes should automatically reset.4.Active sessions should NOT be affected. How will you accomplish the task?To answer, configure the appropriate option or options in the dialog box.Answer: Explanation:By default, most of the settings in the sessions tab are configured to use the user account property settingsand several settings are grayed out.This can be overridden by selecting the check box next to Override user settings.When user settings are overridden, several settings are no longer grayed out; these include:

1. End a disconnected session Used to specify the amount of time a disconnected session can remain running on the Terminal Services computer.
2. Active session limit Used to specify the amount of time an actively used session can remain connected and in use.
3. Idle session limit Used to specify the amount of time an idle session can remain connected to the Terminal Services computer.

The first 'Override user settings' checkbox specifies that a session is ended when the session limit is reached or the connection is broken. That will ensure that disconnected sessions remain on the server for a maximum of one minute. You can specify the maximum time limit for a disconnected session to remain on the server by configuring the 'End a disconnected session' option; the maximum time limit that a user session can remain active on the server by configuring the 'Active session limit' option; and the maximum time limit for a session to remain idle by configuring the 'Idle session limit' option. This should keep idle sessions on the server for a maximum of 30 minutes and reset them automatically. The second 'Override user settings' checkbox specifies the type of action to be taken when the session limit is reached.

NEW QUESTION: 3Which three statements accurately describe the Automated Installation (AI) client?A. If a client system does not use any SC profile, then an interactive tool opens on that client at first boot after that client installation to complete the configuration of that client.B. Any manifest or script in a service can be designated to be the default for that service.C. If the AI client does not match any criteria to use a custom manifest or script, the default manifest is used.D. If a client system does not use any SC profile, then the install server will use the default SC profile.E. Only the default.xmlfile is used as the default AT client manifest.F. If the AI client does not match any criteria to use a custom manifest or script, the automated installation aborts.Answer: A,C,E
Explanation:A: Each client uses one and only one AI manifest to complete its installation. The AI manifest is selected for a client according to the following algorithm:* If no custom AI manifests are defined for this install service, the default AI manifest is used. The default AI manifest is not associated with any client criteria etc.D: When you create a new install service, install_service_image_path/auto_install/manifest/default.xml is the initial default AI manifest for that install service.E: Each client can use any number of system configuration profiles. If a client system does not use any configuration profile, then an interactive tool opens on that client at first boot after that client installation to complete the configuration of that client.
