Green belts work fulltime on quality management.C. Master black belts usually concentrate on quality in a single department.D. Defects are measured on a permillion basis.*Answer: B*Explanation:Explanation: Green belts do not work fulltime on quality management; they spend some of their time pursuing other organizational initiatives. Green belts may be training to become black belts, who do spend all of their time on quality management issues, usually in a single department. One of the key features of Six Sigma is measurement of defects on the permillion instead of the traditional perthousand basis. The define, measure, analyze, improve, and control (DMAIC) model of Six Sigma has become perhaps its most recognizable feature.
