NEW QUESTION: 1BackgroundYou have a database named HR1 that includes a table named Employee.You have several read-only, historical reports that contain regularly changing totals. The reports use multiple queries to estimate payroll expenses. The queries run concurrently. Users report that the payroll estimate reports do not always run. You must monitor the database to identify issues that prevent the reports from running.You plan to deploy the application to a database server that supports other applications. You must minimize the amount of storage that the database requires.Employee TableYou use the following Transact-SQL statements to create, configure, and populate the Employee table:Application You have an application that updates the Employees table. The application calls the following stored procedures simultaneously and asynchronously:* UspA: This stored procedure updates only the EmployeeStatus column.* UspB: This stored procedure updates only the EmployeePayRate column.The application uses views to control access to data. Views must meet the following requirements:* Allow user access to all columns in the tables that the view accesses.* Restrict updates to only the rows that the view returns.ExhibitYou are analyzing the performance of the database environment. You discover that locks that are held for a long period of time as the reports are generated.You need to generate the reports more quickly. The database must not use additional resources.What should you do?A. Apply a nonclustered index to all tables used in the report queries.B. Update the transaction level of the report query session to READ UNCOMMITTED.C. Modify the report queries to use the UNION statement to combine the results of two or more queries.D. Update all FROM clauses of the DML statements to use the IGNORE_CONSTRAINTS table hint.Answer: BExplanation:ExplanationTransactions running at the READ UNCOMMITTED level do not issue shared locks to prevent other transactions from modifying data read by the current transaction. This is the least restrictive of the isolation levels.References:

NEW QUESTION: 3Scenario:Please read this scenario prior to answering the QuestionYou are serving as the Lead Architect for the enterprise architecture team at the prime contractor for the Dreadnought Unmanned Aircraft System program.Over the course of this contract, the company has grown rapidly by acquisition and has inherited numerous different procurement processes and related IT systems. The decision has been made to consolidate and reduce redundant procurement processes and systems. The CEO has announced that the company will seek to leverage higher volume discounts and lower related IT support costs by instituting a preferred supplier program.TOGAF 9 Is used for internal Enterprise Architecture activities, with an iterative approach for executing Architecture Development Method (ADM) projects.At present, there are no particularly useful architectural assets related to this initiative, so all assets need to be acquired and customized or created from scratch. The company prefers to implement commercial off the shelf package applications with little customization. The CIO, who is the project sponsor, has stated that she is not concerned about preserving existing processes or systems.The architect-re development project has put in place Its Architecture Capability for this project and has started a number of iteration cycles to develop the Architecture. Some tasks to address concerns related to the Business Architecture have been completed. The next immediate task is to address the Information Systems Architectures.The Information Systems Architectures must address stakeholder concerns such as:1. Which procurement-related business processes are supported by zero, one, or many existing applications?2. What non-procurement applications will need to be integrated with any new procurement applications?3. What data will need to be shared?Refer to the Scenario[Note: You may need to refer to TOGAF 9 Chapter 35 in order to answer this question.] You have been asked to identify the most appropriate catalogs, matrices, and diagrams for this situation. Based on TOGAF 9, which of the following is the best answer?A. in the early iterations of Architecture development, you would describe the Baseline Application Architecture with a System/Function matrix, and describe the Baseline Data Architecture using a Data Entity/Data Component catalog. In the later Iterations of the Architecture Definition, you would describe the Target Application Architecture using Application Communication diagrams and an Application Interaction matrix, and describe the Target Data Architecture with a System/Data matrix.B. In the early iterations of Architecture development, you would describe the Target Application Architecture with Application Communication diagrams and an Application Interaction matrix, and describe the Target Data Architecture with a System/Data matrix.
