NEW QUESTION: 2 You are defining release strategies for two applications as shown in the following table. Which release strategy should you use for each application? To answer, drag the appropriate release strategies to the correct applications. Each release strategy may be used once, more than once, or not at all. You may need to drag the split bar between panes or scroll to view content. NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point. Answer: Explanation: Explanation App1: Canary deployment With canary deployment, you deploy a new application code in a small part of the production infrastructure. Once the application is signed off for release, only a few users are routed to it. This minimizes any impact. With no errors reported, the new version can gradually roll out to the rest of the infrastructure. App2: Rolling deployment: In a rolling deployment, an application's new version gradually replaces the old one. The actual deployment happens over a period of time. During that time, new and old versions will coexist without affecting functionality or user experience. This process makes it easier to roll back any new component incompatible with the old components.

NEW QUESTION: 3 You observe a high number of gc current failure on your RAC system. What could be causing this issue?A. You are not using the correct private interconnect.B. There is too much contention on the High Water Mark enqueue of your tables.C. Too much parsing is occurring on your system.D. Too much manual locking is occurring.Answer: A
