NEW QUESTION: 1A. The quantity in Column A is greater;B. The quantity in Column B is greater;C. The relationship cannot be determined from the information given.D. The quantities are equal;Answer: DExplanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation:There's no need to calculate either quantity, and you can cancel the products from both columns. To make the comparison, observe the place-value shifts from the decimal number 9.3. In Column A, the decimal point shifts 3 places left (9,300) and 3 places right (.0093), so the quantity is equivalent to (9.3) (9.3). You can now see that Quantity B, which is (9.3)(9.3), is the same as Quantity A.

Grant appropriate permissions to create and manage resources within the root compartment.Answer: BExplanation:If your organization is small, or if you are still in the proof-of-concept stage of evaluating Oracle Cloud Infrastructure, consider placing all of your resources in the root compartment (tenancy).This approach makes it easy for you to quickly view and manage all your resources. You can still write policies and create groups to restrict permissions on specific resources to only the users who need access. If you plan to maintain all your resources in the root compartment, we recommend setting up a separate sandbox compartment to give users a dedicated space to try out features. In the sandbox compartment, you can grant users permissions to create and manage resources, while maintaining stricter permissions on the resources in your tenancy (root) compartment.
