Burbank(config)# enable secret fortress
Burbank(config)# line con 0
Burbank(config-line)# login
Burbank(config-line)# password n0way1n
Burbank(config-line)# exit
Burbank(config)# service

password-encryptionWhat is the purpose of the last command entered?A. to prevent the vty, console, and enable passwords from being displayed in plain text in the configuration filesB. to require the user to enter an encrypted password during the login processC. to provide login encryption services between hosts attached to the routerD. to encrypt the enable secret passwordAnswer: AExplanation: Certain types of passwords, such as Line passwords, by default appear in clear text in the configuration file. You can use the service password-encryption command to make them more secure. Once this command is entered, each password configured is automatically encrypted and thus rendered illegible inside the configuration file (much as the Enable/Enable Secret passwords are). Securing Line passwords is doubly important in networks on which TFTP servers are used, because TFTP backup entails routinely moving config files across networks-and config files, of course, contain Line passwords.
