NEW QUESTION: 1 Drag and drop the threat-mitigation techniques from the left onto the types of threat or attack they mitigate on the right.Answer: Explanation:ExplanationDouble-Tagging attack:In this attack, the attacking computer generates frames with two 802.1Q tags. The first tag matches the native VLAN of the trunk port (VLAN 10 in this case), and the second matches the VLAN of a host it wants to attack (VLAN 20).When the packet from the attacker reaches Switch A, Switch A only sees the first VLAN 10 and it matches with its native VLAN 10 so this VLAN tag is removed. Switch A forwards the frame out all links with the same native VLAN 10. Switch B receives the frame with an tag of VLAN 20 so it removes this tag and forwards out to the Victim computer.Note: This attack only works if the trunk (between two switches) has the same native VLAN as the attacker.To mitigate this type of attack, you can use VLAN access control lists (VACLs, which applies to all traffic within a VLAN. We can use VACL to drop attacker traffic to specific victims/servers) or implement Private VLANs.ARP attack (like ARP poisoning/spoofing) is a type of attack in which a malicious actor sends falsified ARP messages over a local area network as ARP allows a gratuitous reply from a host even if an ARP request was not received. This results in the linking of an attacker's MAC address with the IP address of a legitimate computer or server on the network. This is an attack based on ARP which is at Layer 2.Dynamic ARP inspection (DAI) is a security feature that validates ARP packets in a network which can be used to mitigate this type of attack.

NEW QUESTION: 2Note: This question is part of a series of questions that use the same scenario. For your convenience, the scenario is repeated in each question. Each question presents a different goal and answer choices, but the text of the scenario is exactly the same in each question in this series.You have a database named Sales that contains the following database tables: Customer, Order, and Products.The Products table and the Order table are shown in the following diagram.The customer table includes a column that stores the data for the last order that the customer placed.You plan to create a table named Leads. The Leads table is expected to contain approximately 20,000 records.Storage requirements for the Leads table must be minimized.You need to implement a stored procedure that deletes a discontinued product from the Products table. You identify the following requirements: * If an open order includes a discontinued product, the records for the product must not be deleted. * The stored procedure must return a custom error message if a product record cannot be deleted. The message must identify the OrderID for the open order. What should you do? To answer, select the appropriate Transact-SQL segments in the answer area. Answer: Explanation: Explanation Using TRY...CATCH in Transact-SQL Errors in Transact-SQL code can be processed by using a TRY...CATCH construct. TRY...CATCH can use the following error function to capture error information: ERROR_MESSAGE() returns the complete text of the error message. The text includes the values supplied for any substitutable parameters such as lengths, object names, or times.
