NEW QUESTION: 2You have a computer named Computer1 that runs Windows 10 Enterprise. Computer1 is configured to receive Windows updates from the Internet.If a user is logged on to Computer1, you need to prevent Computer1 from automatically restarting without the logged on user's consent after the installation of the Windows updates.What should you do?A. Edit the Automatic App Update scheduled task.B. Enable the Defer upgrades setting.C. Configure the Choose how updates are delivered setting.D. Configure the Choose how updates are installed setting.Answer: D*Explanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation:In the Choose how updates are installed setting, you can use the drop-down menu to choose an option:Schedule a restart Automatically restartThe Schedule a restart option will allow the user to choose when the computer is restarted. Of the answers given, this is the only way to prevent Computer1 from automatically restarting without the logged on user's consent after the installation of the Windows updates.Incorrect Answers:A: The Defer Upgrades setting delays feature upgrades for several months while allowing security updates through. It does not prevent a computer from automatically restarting without the logged on user's consent after the installation of the Windows updates.B: The Automatic App Update scheduled task is for updating Windows Store

Apps, not the operating system. Furthermore, there is no setting in the Automatic App Update scheduled task that can prevent a computer from automatically restarting without the logged on user's consent after the installation of updates. C: The Choose how updates are delivered setting can be used to enable or disable peer-to-peer updates. This is where one computer on the network downloads the updates from Microsoft and other computers on the network download the updates from that computer. This setting cannot prevent a computer from automatically restarting without the logged on user's consent after the installation of the Windows updates. References:

NEW QUESTION: 3 The Secure European System for Applications in a Multivendor Environment (SESAME) implements a Kerberos-like distribution of secret keys. Which of the following is NOT a characteristic of SESAME? A. Uses a trusted authentication server at each host B. Uses secret key cryptography for the distribution of secret keys C. Incorporates two certificates or tickets, one for authentication and one defining access privileges D. Uses public key cryptography for the distribution of secret keys Answer: B Explanation: SESAME uses public key cryptography for the distribution of secret keys. In addition, SESAME employs the MD5 and crc32 one-way hash functions. A weakness in SESAME is that, similar to Kerberos, it is subject to password guessing.
