NEW QUESTION: 1A company has a media catalog with metadata for each item in the catalog. Different types of metadata are extracted from the media items by an application running on AWS Lambda. Metadata is extracted according to a number of rules with the output stored in an Amazon ElastiCache for Redis cluster. The extraction process is done in batches and takes around 40 minutes to complete. The update process is triggered manually whenever the metadata extraction rules change. The company wants to reduce the amount of time it takes to extract metadata from its media catalog. To achieve this, a solutions architect has split the single metadata extraction Lambda function into a Lambda function for each type of metadata. Which additional steps should the solutions architect take to meet the requirements?A. Create a Lambda function to retrieve a list of media items and write each item to an Amazon SQS queue. Subscribe the metadata extraction Lambda functions to the SQS queue with a large batch size.B. Create an AWS Step Functions workflow to run the Lambda functions in parallel. Create another Step Functions workflow that retrieves a list of media items and executes a metadata extraction workflow for each one.C. Create an AWS Batch compute environment for each Lambda function. Configure an AWS Batch job queue for the compute environment. Create a Lambda function to retrieve a list of media items and write each item to the job queue.D. Create an AWS Step Functions workflow to run the Lambda functions in parallel. Create a Lambda function to retrieve a list of media items and write each item to an Amazon SQS queue. Configure the SQS queue as an input to the Step Functions workflowAnswer: B*Explanation:
