NEW QUESTION: 3Which two statements correctly describe ASA resource management in multiple context mode? (Choose two.)A. The resource limit can only be set as a percentage in the class and not as an absolute value.*B. The default class provides unlimited access for all the resources.*C. Context belongs to a default class if not assigned to any other class.*D. A resource cannot be oversubscribed or set to be unlimited in the class.*E. The class sets the resource maximum limit for a context to which it belongs.*Answer: C,EExplanation:By default, all security contexts have unlimited access to the resources of the ASA, except where maximum limits per context are enforced; the only exception is VPN resources, which are disabled by default. If you find that one or more contexts use too many resources, and they cause other contexts to be denied connections, for example, then you can configure resource management to limit the use of resources per context. For VPN resources, you must configure resource management to allow any VPN tunnels. All contexts belong to the default class if they are not assigned to another class; you do not have to actively assign a context to the default class. If a context belongs to a class other than the default class, those class settings always override the default class settings. However, if the other class has any settings that are not defined, then the member context uses the default class for those limits. For example, if you create a class with a

2 percent limit for all concurrent connections, but no other limits, then all other limits are inherited from the default class. Conversely, if you create a class with a limit for all resources, the class uses no settings from the default class.:
