NEW QUESTION: 2Your company is moving towards tracking web page users with a small tracking image loaded on each page. Currently you are serving this image out of US-East, but are starting to get concerned about the time it takes to load the image for users on the west coast. What are the two best ways to speed up serving this image? Choose 2 answers A. Serve the image out through CloudFront B. Use Route 53's Latency Based Routing and serve the image out of US-West-2 as well as US-East-1 C. Serve the image out of S3 so that it isn't being served off of your web application tier D. Use EBS PIOPs to serve the image faster out of your EC2 instances Answer: A,B

NEW QUESTION: 3An AWS customer is deploying an application that is composed of an AutoScaling group of EC2 instances. The customer's security policy requires that every outbound connection from these instances to any other service within the customer's Virtual Private Cloud must be authenticated using a unique x.509 certificate that contains the specific instance-id. In addition, an x.509 certificate must be designed by the customer's Key Management service in order to be trusted for authentication. Which of the following configurations will support these requirements? A. Configure the launched instances to generate a new certificate upon first boot. Have the Key Management service poll the Auto Scaling group for associated instances and send new instances a certificate signature (that contains the specific instance-id). B. Embed a certificate into the Amazon Machine Image that is used by the Auto Scaling group. Have the launched instances generate a certificate signature request with the instance's assigned instance-id to the key management service for signature. C. Configure the Auto Scaling group to send an SNS notification of the launch of a new instance to the trusted key management service. Have the Key Management service generate a signed certificate and send it directly to the newly launched instance. D. Configure an IAM Role that grants access to an Amazon S3 object containing a signed certificate and configure the Auto Scaling group to launch instances with this role. Have the instances bootstrap get the certificate from Amazon

S3 upon first boot.Answer: D
