NEW QUESTION: 1A user has created a VPC with public and private subnets using the VPC wizard. Which of the below mentioned statements is true in this scenario?A. The user has to manually create a NAT instanceB. VPC bounds the main route table with a public subnet and a custom route table with a private subnetC. VPC bounds the main route table with a private subnet and a custom route table with a public subnetD. The AWS VPC will automatically create a NAT instance with the micro sizeAnswer: C*Explanation:A Virtual Private Cloud (VPC. is a virtual network dedicated to the user's AWS account. A user can create a subnet with VPC and launch instances inside that subnet. If the user has created a public private subnet, the instances in the public subnet can receive inbound traffic directly from the internet, whereas the instances in the private subnet cannot. If these subnets are created with Wizard, AWS will create a NAT instance of a smaller or higher size, respectively. The VPC has an implied router and the VPC wizard updates the main route table used with the private subnet, creates a custom route table and associates it with the public subnet.

reaches zero.D. It routes the packet using the default routing table
Answer: D
Explanation/Reference:
Explanation:The PBR Recursive Next Hop feature enhances route maps to enable configuration of a recursive next-hop IP address that is used by policy-based routing (PBR). The recursive next-hop IP address is installed in the routing table and can be a subnet that is not directly connected. If the recursive next-hop IP address is not available, packets are routed using a default route.If both a next-hop and a recursive next-hop IP address are present in the same route-map entry, the next-hop is used. If the next-hop is not available, the recursive next-hop is used. If there cursive next-hop is not available and no other IP address is present, the packet is routed using the default routing table; it is not dropped.
