Suicide Hackers hack for a cause important to them and find the end goal more important than their individual freedom.The term "Hacker" originally meant a Unix computer enthusiast but has been villainized in the media as a "Criminal Hacker" for a mass audience. A hacker used to be known as a good person who would add functionality within software or would make things work better. To most people today "Hacker" means criminal "Criminal Cracker", it is synonymous with Cracker or someone who get access to a system without the owner authorization.As seen in news reports in 2011 and later hackers associated with the "Anonymous" movement have attacked finance and/or credit card companies, stolen enough information to make contributions to worthy charities on behalf of organizations they see as contrary to the public good. These sorts of attackers/hackers could be considered suicide hackers. Some did get caught and prosecuted while carrying out their cause. Nobody can know if they knew their activities would land them in court and/or prison but they had to have known of the risk and proceeded anyway. The following answers are incorrect: Black Hat hackers are also known as crackers and are merely hackers who "violates computer security for little reason beyond maliciousness or for personal gain". Black Hat Hackers are "the epitome of all that the public fears in a computer criminal". Black Hat Hackers break into secure networks to destroy data or make the network unusable for those who are authorized to use the network. White Hat Hackers are law-abiding, reputable experts defending assets and not breaking laws. A white hat hacker breaks security for non-malicious reasons, for instance testing their own security system. The term "white hat" in Internet slang refers to an ethical hacker. This classification also includes individuals who perform penetration tests and vulnerability assessments within a contractual agreement. Often, this type of 'white hat' hacker is called an ethical hacker. The International Council of Electronic Commerce Consultants, also known as the EC-Council has developed certifications, courseware, classes, and online training covering the diverse arena of Ethical Hacking. Note about White Hat: As reported by Adin Kerimov, a white hat would not be worried about going to jail as he is doing a test with authorization as well and he has a signed agreement. While this is a true point he BEST choice is Suicide Hackers for the purpose of the exam, a white hat hacker would not disregard law and the authority. . Gray Hat Hackers work both offensively and defensively and can cross the border between legal/ethical behavior and illegal/unethical behavior. A grey hat hacker is a combination of a Black Hat and a White Hat Hacker. A Grey Hat Hacker may surf the internet and hack into a computer system for the sole purpose of notifying the administrator that their system has been hacked, for example. Then they may offer to repair their system for a small fee. OTHER TYPES OF HACKERS Elite hacker is a social status among hackers, elite is used to describe the most skilled. Newly discovered exploits will circulate among these hackers. Elite groups such as Masters of Deception conferred a kind of credibility on their members. Often time they do not even understand how they are taken advantage of the system, they do not understand the weakness being exploited, all they know is how to use a tool that someone else has built.
