NEW QUESTION: 4A company currently operates a web application backed by an Amazon RDS MySQL database. It has automated backups that are run daily and are not encrypted. A security audit requires future backups to be encrypted and the unencrypted backups to be destroyed. The company will make at least one encrypted backup before destroying the old backups. What should be done to enable encryption for future backups?"A. Modify the backup section of the database configuration to toggle the Enable encryption check boxB. Enable an encrypted read replica on RDS for MySQL. Promote the encrypted read replica to primary. Remove the original database instanceC. Enable default encryption for the Amazon S3 bucket where backups are storedD. Create a snapshot of the database. Copy it to an encrypted snapshot. Restore the database from the encrypted snapshotAnswer: D*Explanation:Amazon RDS uses snapshots for backup. Snapshots are encrypted when created only if the database is encrypted and you can only select encryption for the database when you first create it. In this case the database, and hence the snapshots, are unencrypted. However, you can create an encrypted copy of a snapshot. You can restore using that snapshot which creates a new DB instance that has encryption enabled. From that point on encryption will be enabled for all snapshots.
