NEW QUESTION: 2A trucking company delivers products all over the country. The executives at the company would like to have better insight into the location of their drivers to ensure the shipments are following secure routes. Which of the following would BEST help the executives meet this goal?A. Equip each truck with an RFID tag for location services.B. Install GSM tracking on each product for end-to-end delivery visibility.C. Implement geo-fencing to track products.D. Require drivers to geo-tag documentation at each delivery location.Answer: CExplanation:A Geo-fencing solution would use GPS to track the vehicles and could be configured to inform the executives where the vehicles are.Geo-fencing is a feature in a software program that uses the global positioning system (GPS) or radio frequency identification (RFID) to define geographical boundaries. A geo-fence is a virtual barrier.Programs that incorporate geo-fencing allow an administrator to set up triggers so when a device enters (or exits) the boundaries defined by the administrator, a text message or email alert is sent. Many geo-fencing applications incorporate Google Earth, allowing administrators to define boundaries on top of a satellite view of a specific geographical area. Other applications define boundaries by longitude and latitude or through user-created and Web-based maps.
