NEW QUESTION: 2 You have a dataset that contains 2,000 rows. You are building a machine learning classification model by using Azure Learning Studio. You add a Partition and Sample module to the experiment. You need to configure the module. You must meet the following requirements: * Divide the data into subsets * Assign the rows into folds using a round-robin method * Allow rows in the dataset to be reused How should you configure the module? To answer, select the appropriate options in the dialog box in the answer area. NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point. Answer: Explanation: Explanation Use the Split data into partitions option when you want to divide the dataset into subsets of the data. This option is also useful when you want to create a custom number of folds for cross-validation, or to split rows into several groups. * Add the Partition and Sample module to your experiment in Studio (classic), and connect the dataset. * For Partition or sample mode, select Assign to Folds. * Use replacement in the partitioning: Select this option if you want the sampled row to be put back into the pool of rows for potential reuse. As a result, the same row might be assigned to several folds. * If you do not use replacement (the default option), the sampled row is not put back into the pool of rows for potential reuse. As a result, each row can be assigned to only one fold. * Randomized split: Select this option if you want rows to be randomly assigned to folds. If you do not select this option, rows are assigned to folds using the round-robin method.
