* Efficiency: Across the same 42 campaigns, Facebook impressions were two times more likely to hit their target audience than TV impressions. This means advertisers spent less to reach their target audiences.
* Effectiveness: A study by Nielsen of seven recent campaigns showed that, compared to people who saw TV alone, people exposed to both TV and Facebook demonstrated a 3.2 percentage point increase in ad memorability, 11.5 percentage point increase in brand linkage, and a 22.7 percentage point increase in like-ability linkage.
* Measure Traditional Campaigns: With Facebook TRP buying, advertisers can measure traditional channels with online channels equally through third-party providers. Facebook currently partnered with Nielsen Digital Ad Ratings in order to verify on-target impressions. Keep in mind that all TV marketing efforts that run in conjunction with Facebook TRP buying ads should be geared towards branding campaigns, not direct response campaigns.
