NEW QUESTION: 1 A client who was started on antipsychotic medication 2 weeks ago is preparing for discharge from the hospital. Compliance with the medication regimen is important despite the mild side effects encountered. In order to increase the likelihood of medication compliance, the nurse would:A. Inform the client that additional side effects are to be expected and need not be reported.B. Inform the client to cease taking the medication when all psychotic symptoms have cleared.C. Discuss the disease process and the importance of the medication in prevention of symptoms.D. Discuss the importance of getting blood drawn weekly to determine medication therapeutics.Answer: C*Explanation:(A) This answer is correct. If the client is well informed about what reactions to expect from her medication, she is more likely to follow the treatment regimen. (B) This answer is incorrect. There are many side effects that are reversible by medication, and these must be reported to the nurse or physician. There are also more severe side effects, such as neuroleptic malignant syndrome, characterized by fever, tachycardia, and diaphoresis, which can be life threatening. (C) This answer is incorrect. There is no need for weekly blood tests if the drug regimen has been followed properly. (D) This answer is incorrect. The client should continue the medication until the physician recommends any change in the drug regimen. Symptoms will usually reappear if medication is discontinued.
