NEW QUESTION: 2User jack logs in to host solaris and then attempts to log in to host oracle using ssh. He receives the following error message:The authenticity of host oracle (192.168.1.22) can't be established. RSA key fingerprint is 3B:23:a5:6d:ad:a5:76:83:9c:c3:c4:55:a5:18:98:a6Are you sure you want to continue connecting (yes/no)?Which two are true?A. The private host key supplied by oracle is not known to solaris.B. The error would not occur if the RSA key fingerprint shown in the error message was added to the /etc/ ssh/known_hosts file on solaris.C. If jack answers yes, the RSA public key for the host oracle will be added to the known_hosts file for the user jack.D. The public host key supplied by oracle is not known to the host solaris.E. The public host key supplied by solaris is not known to the host oracle.Answer: B,CExplanation:Explanation/Reference:Explanation:The fingerprints are used to guard against man in the middle attacks. Since ssh logins usually work over the internet (an insecure connection), someone could hijack your connection. When you try to log into yourmachine.com, he could get "in the middle" and return your challenge as if he was yourmachine.com.That way, he could get hold of your login password.To make this attack harder, ssh stores the fingerprint of the server's public key on the first connection attempt. You will see a prompt like:The authenticity of host 'eisen (137.43.366.64)' can't be established.RSA key fingerprint is cf:55:30:31:7f:f0:c4:a0:9a:02:1d:1c:41:cf:63:cf.Are you sure you want to continue connecting (yes/no)When you enter yes, ssh will add the fingerprint to your known_hosts file. you will see Code:Warning: Permanently added 'eisen, 137.43.366.64' (RSA) to the list of known hosts.The next time you login, ssh will check whether the host key has changed. A changing host key usually indicates a man in the middle attack, and ssh refuses to connect.
