NEW QUESTION: 2Which of the following statements are true regarding DML? Each correct answer represents a complete solution. Choose all that apply. A. It is used to specify a database schema by a set of definitions. B. It can be procedural or declarative. C. It enables users to access/manipulate data in a database. D. It is used to specify additional properties of the data. Answer: B, C Explanation: A data-manipulation language (DML) is a family of languages to access or manipulate data that is organized by the appropriate data model. DML is used for the following operations: Retrieval of information stored in the database. Insertion of new information into the database. Deletion of information from the database. Modification of information stored in the database. Currently the most popular data manipulation language is that of SQL, which is used to retrieve and manipulate data in a Relational database. In SQL, the following statements are used for database manipulation: SELECT ... INTO INSERT UPDATE DELETE Each SQL DML statement is a declarative command. There are two types of DMLs: Procedural DMLs: It requires a user to specify what data are needed and how to get those data. Declarative DMLs: It requires a user to specify what data are needed without specifying how to get those data. Answer C and B are incorrect. Data-definition language (DDL) is used to specify a database schema by a set of definitions. It is also used to specify additional properties of the data.
