NEW QUESTION: 1A partner manages on-premises and Azure environments. The partner deploys an on-premises solution that needs to use Azure services. The partner deploys a virtual appliance.All network traffic that is directed to a specific subnet must flow through the virtual appliance.You need to recommend solutions to manage network traffic.Which two options should you recommend? Each correct answer presents a complete solution.NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.A. Configure Azure Traffic ManagerB. Implement an Azure virtual networkC. Implement Azure ExpressRouteD. Configure a routing table with forced tunneling

Answer: C,DExplanation:ExplanationC: Forced tunneling lets you redirect or "force" all Internet-bound traffic back to your on-premises location via a Site-to-Site VPN tunnel for inspection and auditing. This is a critical security requirement for most enterprise IT policies. Without forced tunneling, Internet-bound traffic from your VMs in Azure always traverses from Azure network infrastructure directly out to the Internet, without the option to allow you to inspect or audit the traffic.Forced tunneling in Azure is configured via virtual network user-defined routes.D: ExpressRoute lets you extend your on-premises networks into the Microsoft cloud over a private connection facilitated by a connectivity provider. With ExpressRoute, you can establish connections to Microsoft cloud services, such as Microsoft Azure, Office 365, and Dynamics 365.Connectivity can be from an any-to-any (IP VPN) network, a point-to-point Ethernet network, or a virtual cross-connection through a connectivity provider at a co-location facility. ExpressRoute connections do not go over the public Internet. This allows ExpressRoute connections to offer more reliability, faster speeds, lower latencies, and higher security than typical connections over the Internet.References:
