NEW QUESTION: 1 You are designing an application to hold top secret documents. The business requirement is that members of the top secret group should be able to read documents only when they are behind the firewall. How would you design the application?A. You create a dynamic group that will have access to the document and you let the client application add members to the group when they try to connect to the client application from within the firewall.B. You use the document's `a_controlling_app` attribute to identify the permissible client application.C. You use SSL when a user is trying to connect to the client application from outside the firewall.D. You use a different set of Access Control Lists (ACLs) to control access to the document when they are accessed from different sources.Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 2 You administer an Azure Storage account named `contoso-storage`. The account has queue containers with logging enabled. You need to view all log files generated during the month of July 2014. Which URL should you use to access the list?A. `http://contosostorage.blob.core.windows.net/$logs?restype=container&comp=list&prefix=blob/2014/07`B. `http://contosostorage.queue.core.windows.net/$files?restype=container&comp=list&prefix=queue/2014/07`C. `http://contosostorage.queue.core.windows.net/$logs?restype=container&comp=list&prefix=queue/2014/07`D. `http://contosostorage.blob.core.windows.net/$files?restype=container&comp=list&prefix=blob/2014/07`Answer: A
Explanation: Explanation/Reference: Explanation: All logs are stored in block blobs, not queues, in a container named `$logs`, not `$files`, which is automatically created when Storage Analytics is enabled for a storage account. The `$logs` container is located in the blob namespace of the storage account, for example:
`http://<accountname>.blob.core.windows.net/$logs`.

NEW QUESTION: 4 You are reviewing the business requirements for an implementation of CRM on Demand so that you can prepare a data import plan. There is a requirement to enable several processes that will require heavy use of custom Opportunity lists. You review the specific requirements for those lists and find that several custom fields will need to be used as filters and for sorting. What should you do to optimize the performance of those lists after all of the data is imported into the system? A. Create new custom Opportunity fields to use for the list filters and sorting. Map the data into those fields during data Import. Then, select the Case Insensitive check box when creating the custom lists. B. Select the Indexed field type when creating new custom Opportunity fields to use for the list filters and sorting. Then, map the data into those fields during data import. C. Relabel the Indexed fields provided for the Opportunity object to use for the list filters and sorting. Then, map the data into those fields during data Import. D. Create new custom Opportunity fields to use for the list filters and sorting. Map the data into those fields during data Import. Then, set the sort order on those custom fields when creating the custom lists. Answer: C Explanation: We should use index on the custom fields that will be used for filtering and sorting. This will improve performance. Use Indexed Fields Do the following: * Use indexed field to filter data in real-time reports. Indexed fields are optimized so your report results appear more quickly. * Plan ahead when you set up your data to make sure that the correct data is stored in the indexed fields. Following this practice allows you to build reports that use the indexed fields, incorporating them at the best possible places. Oracle CRM On Demand also has a limited number of indexed custom fields. The number varies according to the field type and record type.
