DTE can send an LMI Status Enquiry message to the switch; the switch then replies with an LMI Status message to inform the router about the DLCIs of the defined VCs, as well as the status of each VC. By default, the LMI messages flow every 10 seconds. Every sixth message carries a full Status message, which includes more complete status information about each VC. As we can see, the router has sent 61 messages, but received back none. We also know that DLCI 0 is used as this is the LMI DLCI used in ANSI. If the LMI type had been Cisco, the DLCI used is 1023.
