NEW QUESTION: 2 You are migrating an existing Windows application to an Azure virtual machine (VM) that runs Windows. The application generates, stores, and retrieves a large number of small files. The performance of the application directly corresponds to the speed that these files can be loaded and saved. You need to maximize application performance and storage efficiency. Which are two possible ways to achieve the goal? Each correct answer presents a complete solution. NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.A. Premium Storage virtual hard disk (VHD)B. Standard Storage Blob storageC. Premium Storage Blob storageD. Standard Storage virtual hard disk (VHD)Answer: A,C Explanation: Explanation: Azure Premium Storage delivers high-performance, low-latency disk support for virtual machines (VMs) with input/output (I/O)-intensive workloads. VM disks that use Premium Storage store data on solid-state drives (SSDs). To take advantage of the speed and performance of premium storage disks, you can migrate existing VM disks to Premium Storage.

NEW QUESTION: 3 ABC.com has an Active Directory forest on a single domain. The domain operates Windows Server 2008. A new administrator accidentally deletes the entire organizational unit in the Active Directory database that hosts 6,000 objects. You have backed up the system state data using third-party backup software. To restore backup, you start the domain controller in the Directory Services Restore Mode (DSRM). You need to perform an authoritative restore of the organizational unit and restore the domain controller to its original state. Which three actions should you perform? Build List and Reorder: Answer: Explanation: Explanation: If you are performing authoritative restore on a domain controller that has already received replication of the deletions, perform the following procedures on the recovery domain controller: (...) 2. (...) Restore from backup requires restarting the domain controller in DSRM. Taking the domain controller offline by stopping AD DS is not sufficient to run Ntdsutil procedures to restore from backup. 3. Restore AD DS from Backup (Nonauthoritative Restore) 4. Mark an Object or Objects as Authoritative (...) (MY NOTE: See 2nd article below where we are explicitly told this requires ntdsutil) 5. Restart the domain controller normally. (MY NOTE: Obviously restarting in Safe Mode won't help us much! The DC would not be able to synchronize!) Reference: <http://technet.microsoft.com/en-us/library/cc816878.aspx> You can use this procedure to mark Active Directory objects as authoritative when you perform an authoritative restore. In this procedure, you use the ntdsutil command to select objects that are to be marked authoritative when they replicate to other domain controllers.
