NEW QUESTION: 1A web-based company wants to improve its conversion rate on its landing page Using a large historical dataset of customer visits, the company has repeatedly trained a multi-class deep learning network algorithm on Amazon SageMaker However there is an overfitting problem training data shows 90% accuracy in predictions, while test data shows 70% accuracy only The company needs to boost the generalization of its model before deploying it into production to maximize conversions of visits to purchases Which action is recommended to provide the HIGHEST accuracy model for the company's test and validation data?A. Allocate a higher proportion of the overall data to the training datasetB. Increase the randomization of training data in the mini-batches used in training.C. Apply L1 or L2 regularization and dropouts to the training.D. Reduce the number of layers and units (or neurons) from the deep learning network.Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 2There are many wireless LAN scanners on the market such as NetStumbler, Kismet, MacStumbler, and others that can aid in finding the SSID of wireless LANs. In order to defeat the efforts of these scanners, some administrators configure their access points to stop broadcasting SSIDs in Beacons and not to respond to Probes with null (empty) SSID fields. Describe how wireless LAN protocol analyzers can circumvent this so-called "security" solution.A. Wireless LAN protocol analyzer software puts the radio card driver into RF Monitor mode. This mode is recognized by access points as privileged, allowing them connectivity when it would otherwise be denied.B. Wireless LAN protocol analyzers analyze all frames on a wireless LAN. Frame types other than Beacons and Probe Responses carry the SSID information.C. Wireless LAN protocol analyzers using cards from the same manufacturer as the access point will always be able receive the SSID due to the proprietary chipset protocol extensions.D. Wireless LAN protocol analyzers send specialized Probe Requests to which 802.11 compliant access points are required to respond with a Probe Response containing the SSID information.E. Wireless LAN protocol analyzers use a special driver, used to operate the card in promiscuous mode. Promiscuous mode is a special mode allowing the radio card to see raw data frames, instead of the filtered data frames that standard mode radio cards see.Answer: B
