NEW QUESTION: 2An organization is setting up RDS for their applications. The organization wants to secure RDS access with VPC.Which of the following options is not required while designing the RDS with VPC?A. If the organization is connecting RDS from the internet it must enable the VPC attributes DNS hostnames and DNS resolution.B. The organization must create a subnet group with VPC using more than one subnet which are a part of separate AZs.C. The organization must create a subnet group with public and private subnets. Both the subnets can be in the same or separate AZ.D. The organization should keep minimum of one IP address in each subnet reserved for RDS failover.Answer: C*Explanation:Explanation/Reference:
Explanation:A Virtual Private Cloud (VPC) is a virtual network dedicated to the user's AWS account. It enables the user to launch AWS resources, such as RDS into a virtual network that the user has defined. Subnets are segments of a VPC's IP address range that the user can designate to a group of VPC resources based on security and operational needs. A DB subnet group is a collection of subnets (generally private) that the user can create in a VPC and assign to the RDS DB instances. A DB subnet group allows the user to specify a particular VPC when creating the DB instances.Each DB subnet group should have subnets in at least two Availability Zones in a given region. If the RDS instance is required to be accessible from the internet the organization must enable the VPC attributes, DNS hostnames and DNS resolution. For each RDS DB instance that the user runs in a VPC, he should reserve at least one address in each subnet in the DB subnet group for use by Amazon RDS for recovery actions.
