NEW QUESTION: 2Which statement about OSPF multiaccess segments is true? A. The router that sent the first hello message is elected first. B. The backup designated router is elected first. C. The designated and backup designated routers are elected at the same time. D. The designated router is elected first. Answer: B Explanation: According to the RFC, the BDR is actually elected first, followed by the DR. The RFC explains why: "The reason behind the election algorithm's complexity is the desire for an orderly transition from Backup Designated Router to Designated Router, when the current Designated Router fails. This orderly transition is ensured through the introduction of hysteresis: no new Backup Designated Router can be chosen until the old Backup accepts its new Designated Router responsibilities. The above procedure may elect the same router to be both Designated Router and Backup Designated Router, although that router will never be the calculating router (Router X) itself."
